The HEAT range is made to fit the modern outdoors in cooperation with skilled Danish designers. High design content with respect for the functionality are the key words for these products.

All products are made by high grade and durable materials. All products are CE approved and safety is one of our main concerns.

Henrik Pedersen

39 years of age, graduate from Teko center as product developer worked many years with graphic design, identity design and is now one of the up coming stars of product design.

The resend years his interest for product design has increased and his works includes a super functional and minimalistic range of BBQ's, kitchenware and latest a range of lamps that got him nominated for Bo Bedre's design award in may 2007.

We spend more and more time outdoor and the demands that we have for our products in the house we take with us outdoor.

We want beautiful and functional solutions that inspires us to use them more.

Tobias Jacobsen

Tobias Jacobsen was born with design in his genes. He is the grandson of world-famous Danish architect and designer Arne Jacobsen and has more than evidently inherited his grandfather's talent for design. A talent that is characterised by a minimalist design philosophy in which all superfluous elements are stripped away to reveal the pure form of the object itself. For Tobias Jacobsen, the story behind the product is also of vital importance in that the product must be created with consideration for both humans and the environment.

Tobias Jacobsen (born 1965) underwent formal training as a goldsmith and industrial designer at Danmarks Designskole. Today, he works with design in a wide range of areas that includes timepieces, jewellery, furniture, architecture and kitchenware.
